Finish Arguments In Girard Case

Supreme Court To Decide If GI Will Be Tried By Japanese Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—An intent, inquisitive Supreme Court took up Monday the famed case of GI William S. Girard. It heard conflicting arguments of "sellout" and proper use of a "sovereign executive right" of government.

The sedate, marble, red-tape Supreme Court chamber witnessed, too, a verbal collision seldom equaled in sharpness and biting phrases before this tribunal. Involved in that were Justice Frankfurter and Joseph F. Robinson, one of the lawyers representing the 21-year-old Ottawa, Ill., soldier whom the government has ordered handed over to Japan for trial on charges of killing a Japanese woman.

At one point, Frankfurter questioned whether Robinson was showing discourtesy to the President of the United States and told him: "You can be courteous in arguing even a serious question."

It was Robinson who said the disputed decision to deliver Girard to the Japanese for trial "is wrong" and a "sellout" that strips away constitutional rights.

It was J. Lee Rankin, U. S. solicitor general, who said the decision, in which President Eisenhower concurred, was a sovereign exercise or right, used in the best interests of the nation.

"The government," Rankin said, "doesn't have any right to keep Japan from prosecuting someone for an offense committed within their country... because there is no immunity from their laws."

"The only way this immunity can be modified," he said, is through treaties, which "reduce the sovereign power on the other side."

Court Adjourns
Three hours and 41 minutes after taking up the case, the court finished with the arguments and adjourned without announcing its decision.

Just when the decision will come is indefinite. Chief Justice Warren said both sides could have until Tuesday to submit any legal citations they wished.

At one point in Monday's arguments, attorney Robinson described Japanese justice as "a joke... one of the most antiquated systems of justice anywhere in the world."

Robinson's Argument
Robinson said Rankin's argument was "false, untrue and misleading." Not so many years ago, he said, the government mistled in a brief filed in a Canadian (Continued on Page Seven)

Salk Predicts Polio Will Become Extinct Disease

GENEVA (AP)—Dr. Jonas E. Salk said Monday night in time polio "will become a rare and ultimately extinct disease."

He told a news conference first reports to the Fourth International Polio Conference that opened here Monday showed the "complete safety and high degree of effectiveness" of his antipolio vaccine, predicted the rate of 25 per cent non-effectiveness of the vaccine in the United States "will be rapidly reduced."

He said there will be increased vaccination of pregnant mothers in the future to protect the mother and create polio-resisting antibodies in the infant. This immunization will last about six months after the child's birth. A subsequent vaccination will provide future protection.

Salk talked to reporters at the end of the first day of the five-day international congress. More than 1,000 delegates from 50 countries on both sides of the Iron Curtain are attending.

Soviet Rejects U.S. Plan For 10-Month Nuclear Test Ban

LONDON (AP)—Russia threw cold water on U.S. proposals for a 10-month suspension of hydrogen bomb tests Monday. It was an apparent stiffening of the Soviet attitude on disarmament.

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin told the five-nation U.N. Disarmament subcommittee a 10-month suspension would be too short to be of significant value. He renewed Soviet demands that the tests be suspended immediately for two or three years. He insisted that East and West get together to work out some formula by which the use of nuclear weapons should be finally renounced.

Western delegates appeared shaken by the speech. They asked that no session be held Tuesday while the statement is carefully examined.

British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd, who presided over Monday's subcommittee meeting, termed the speech "disappointing." French representative Jules Moch said it "seemed propagandist."

High U. S. officials declined to characterize the statement, which followed a declaration by Moscow radio that anyone who expected "concessions" as a result of last week's Kremlin shakeup would be "disappointed."

Mixed with Zorin's criticism of Western proposals was a declaration that the Soviet government was convinced of the possibility of a partial disarmament treaty. Russia believes the subcommittee should be able to work out an agreement on such steps as are now feasible, Zorin declared. He flatly rejected, however, a Western proposal made last week that scientists be put to work mapping out details of how a suspension of nuclear tests might be enforced.

"To bring experts together now is a waste of time," Zorin said.

Over 200 Die In Heat Wave In Europe

ROME (AP)—Sweltering Europe counted more than 200 dead in July's torrid heat wave, but there were signs Monday of a slight cooling off.

Britain, Norway and France all reported relief but in Italy, Switzerland, West Germany and Poland it was still hot and humid.

The heat wave had one of its most tragic chapters between dusk Sunday and dawn Monday in a home for the aged at Venice. There, 15 persons—10 of them in their 80s—died in the steaming night. Doctors said all were in weak condition but that 100-degree heat contributed to their deaths.

Some Europeans tried to beat the heat by going swimming, and that pushed the death toll up. In West Germany at least 50 drowned.

In Budapest the heat wave brought a water shortage and city authorities clamped down restrictions.

But in Australia things were different.

They had the heaviest snowfall in five years.

GIRL WHO DIED TWICE STILL LIVES

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—A girl who died twice and still lives lay wistful-eyed in an oxygen tent in a hospital Monday night, clutching a rosary and limply holding her mother's hand.

Six-year-old Maria Toffolon had "died" twice in the past six days. Each time surgeons have brought her back to life by massaging her tiny heart. It is believed to be the first time in medical history that a patient has survived two heart stoppages, doctors said.

The second "death" came late Sunday night during a skin-grafting operation. Her heart stopped for 25 minutes, Monday, said her doctors. She has a "better than 50-50 chance" of survival.

Boats from the Detroit harbor-master's patrol rescued passengers from stalled buses and cars.

Violent thunderstorms and gale-force winds were considered suspect in the death of Eric Blomgren, 57, of Rockford, Ill. He was found dead on a Rockford street with a 2,300-volt power line blown across his body.

Coroner Collins V. Sundberg said he did not know if the line was blown on Blomgren or if he had suffered a heart attack and fallen under the wire.

The surge of cooler air brought afternoon readings in the 80 degree range in eastern Nebraska and western Kansas, compared with Sunday's readings of 100.

PREDICT DECLINE IN MEAT SUPPLIES

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department predicted Monday that meat supplies down about 5 per cent from last year, will decline further next year.

Meat consumption this year is expected to average 139 pounds for each person compared with last year's record of 167 pounds.

The reduction reflects a downturn in cattle numbers on farms and in a smaller pig crop this year than last.

741 Killed During July 4 Holiday; 426 In Traffic--Under Forecast

By The Associated Press

Final tabulation showed at least 741 persons were killed during the long Fourth of July holiday weekend in a variety of violent accidents—mostly traffic.

The traffic toll, however, came far below the prediction of 535 made by the National Safety Council.

An Associated Press survey of fatal accidents, covering the period from 6 p. m. Wednesday to midnight Sunday, showed there were at least 426 traffic deaths. Drownings claimed 216 lives and 99 others were killed in a variety of accidents.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, said that through the relatively low traffic toll "drivers and traffic enforcement agencies now have demonstrated that extra traffic volume and danger can be offset by extra care and effort."

"Motorists and traffic officers deserve a big pat on the back for a splendid job of efficient teamwork. Such an achievement just can't help but make things safer on the highways the whole year around," he said.

The record traffic toll for any four-day Independence Day week-end was set in 1950 when 491 were killed in motor vehicle accidents. The highest over-all July Fourth death toll from traffic, drownings and miscellaneous accidents—was recorded during the three-day holiday in 1955 when 805 were killed.

The all-time record—both in over-all total and traffic toll—occurred during the four-day Christmas holiday period in 1956. There was an over-all total of 884, in which 426 were traffic deaths.

Heavy Rains, Hail, Winds Hit Parts Of 3-State Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cooler air pushed into the Midwest Monday, setting off violent storms in parts of Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois.

A 4-year-old boy was killed in Wisconsin's Devil's Lake State Park when wind uprooted a big tree which toppled on a tent in which eight persons were sleeping.

Heavy rain and hail the size of golf balls pelted parts of Wisconsin causing extensive damage to some crops.

Flooding rains, hail and wind gusts up to 50 m.p.h. hit lower Michigan. The turbulence paralyzed motor traffic and disrupted communications in many areas.

A terrific storm deluged the Detroit area with up to six inches of rain in six hours. More than 10,000 automobiles were stranded in what police called the city's worst traffic jam in history.

One drowning was reported. Water damage was expected to run into the millions of dollars. Most of the cars were trapped in or near the depressed expressway system.

Boats from the Detroit harbor-master's patrol rescued passengers from stalled buses and cars.

Violent thunderstorms and gale-force winds were considered suspect in the death of Eric Blomgren, 57, of Rockford, Ill. He was found dead on a Rockford street with a 2,300-volt power line blown across his body.

Victors In Kremlin Purge To Visit Red-Ruled Czechs

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev and Nikolai Bulganin, victors in the Kremlin purge, took off gaily Monday for a goodwill visit to Red-ruled Czechoslovakia.

Khrushchev, the rotund Communist party boss, and Premier Bulganin, salesman of Soviet communism in a long series of visits abroad, headed for Prague in an atmosphere of confidence.

They took a plane from Moscow for the first leg. A train is to carry them on the final 500 miles across Czechoslovakia, considered the most persistently Stalinist of the entire East European bloc. The schedule calls for their arrival in Prague Wednesday morning.

A chorus of condemnation of "the anti-party group" headed by Georgi Malenkov and V. M. Molotov, both former premiers, came from the Communist parties of the Soviet orbit. In Prague, the official party newspaper Rude Pravo hailed the group's liquidation.

"The Soviet comrades come to a country which will never leave the barricades of communism, where the Red flag is raised by the Soviet Union," Rude Pravo said. "Our meetings with the Soviet leaders will result in absolute agreements which will demonstrate a strengthening of the partnership of the Socialist states on all fundamental questions."

This was echoed by a Czech official in Prague.

"It means big things," he said. Another official, of equal rank, developments. "It is simply the return of a visit our leaders made to Moscow," he said. "It is that and nothing more."

The Czech leaders are Premier Vilem Siroky and Communist party boss Antonin Novotny.

Jewish Couple's Hopes Heightened In Adoption Case

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A Miami judge heightened hopes of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ellis Monday for adopting Hildy McCoy but deferred decision pending study of Massachusetts' claim to the blonde 6-year-old, born to a Roman Catholic mother but raised by the Jewish couple.

Circuit Judge John W. Prunty ruled, meanwhile that Hildy was a suitable person for adoption and that the Miami Beach couple were suitable foster parents.

Ellis and his wife, Frances, smiled happily after the 1½-hour hearing in which five lawyers hotly argued the case on behalf of the Ellises, the Florida Welfare Department, Massachusetts and Hildy's natural mother, Mrs. Marjorie McCoy Doherty of Hingham, Mass.

"I had hoped for a final decree," Ellis told newsmen, "but I'm encouraged by what the judge has ruled so far."

Freckled Hildy spent the interval in company with a "sitter," a neighbor's 12-year-old daughter, drawing pictures in Judge Prunty's chambers while legal rights and human values were being threshed out in the courtroom. She has been shielded from the controversy throughout the long, two-state litigation over her upbringing.

It was Aponte who had led police to the grave. He said at the time that he had seen Rosenberg bury a body there last October but had not told authorities for fear of losing his job.

Held in lieu of $10,000 bail as a material witness, Aponte was questioned further about the Carletto boy and Joseph said he finally told a bizarre tale of how the youngster died last Oct. 13.

Aponte was quoted as saying he had been studying black magic and needed a human skull. The worker wanted to dry the skull, grind it into dust and use the powder in a potion Aponte believed would enable him to cast spells on women, Joseph said.

The public safety director said Aponte would have killed anyone to get the skull but Roger happened to visit his quarters in a chicken coop the evening of Oct. 13.

Aponte struck Roger from behind with his fist, Joseph said, and while the boy was unconscious, he strangled him with a cord.

Three hours later, sure that the Rosenberns were asleep in the farm house, Aponte buried the body without removing the skull and covered the grave with chicken litter, Joseph said.

Seven months later, Joseph said, Aponte uncovered the grave, cut off the top of the skull with a knife and recovered the brain.

Police said Aponte led them to his quarters Monday and showed them the portion of skull, hanging on a string inside a two-burner kerosene stove.

Several books in Spanish dealing with black magic were found in the wood frame chicken coop, the worker called his home.

South Will Try To Kill It

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate battle of historic proportions began at 2:17 p.m. Monday when Republican Leader Knowland, of California, moved to call up the administration's civil rights bill.

The bill was immediately attacked by Sen. Ervin (D-NC) as the "most drastic and indefensible" legislation ever submitted to Congress.

Southern senators are determined to try to kill it as they have all other civil rights legislation in recent years. A filibuster may develop from this effort. In that event, Congress might have to stay in session until mid-September.

First On Program
Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, said he had been informed by Knowland and other supporters of the bill that no other business will be allowed before the Senate until the civil rights issue is settled.

The only exceptions, Johnson said he was advised, would be measures of "extreme urgency" or bills that could be handled by unanimous consent.

Russell Leads South
Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), the leader of the Southern opposition, jumped quickly into the fray with an assertion that backers of the civil rights bill have tried to "make the South the whipping boy of the nation."

"They are trying to make us a bear, being poked at all of the time to make it dance!" he cried. "We will resist—we will resist."

Russell has asked for a conference with President Eisenhower on the civil rights bill and will get an appointment, the White House announced.

Hopes For Vote This Week
Knowland told the Senate he hoped for a vote on his motion before the end of the week. He had said previously he would force the Senate into round-the-clock sessions if it became apparent that Southerners were trying to talk the bill to death.

$2 Million Fire Sweeps Through Paper Warehouse

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—A smoky fire roared through a 1,000-foot-long paper warehouse here Monday causing damage estimated at about two million dollars. Burning paper stocks were expected to smolder at least another 24 hours. No one was injured.

A strong wind blowing away from a nearby gasoline and oil tank storage farm and a building housing a propane tank was credited with keeping the flames from spreading in that direction.

The fire at the McDonald Lumber Co. warehouse was discovered shortly before 8 a.m.

Fire chief David Zuidmuler, said he believed a bolt of lightning from a vicious early morning storm may have touched off the blaze.

Disarmament Hopes High

The fact that half a dozen top U.S. senators will be observing the London disarmament talks for the next several days is one more significant indication that the discussions have taken a turn toward real agreement.

True, the Democratic leadership declined to send anyone in the role of "adviser," but this was simply a precaution to avoid Democratic identity with any policy decisions made there. The opposition view, naturally enough, is that the administration must take responsibility for what is done.

Obviously President Eisenhower wants congressional onlookers in London because he is anticipating an agreement with the Soviet Union and the Western powers which the Senate would have to approve.

His hopes, always reasonably high, have climbed again since Russia announced new proposals remarkably close to some of America's. He is still properly insistent that any general disarmament program—including most vitally a ban on nuclear weapons—be enforceable through effective inspection measures. But he seems persuaded that beginning strides toward that goal are about to be realized.

What the specific beginning will be, if it comes to pass, cannot be forecast with assurance. It may call for a temporary nuclear test ban, or a reduction in nuclear and other arms output, or a system of inspection of atomic and other military installations in a limited zone.

Whatever it may be, plainly the mood in Washington and London is optimistic.

If agreement is reached, the most seasoned foreign observers appear to feel it will be because it has become shockingly clear to the men in the Kremlin how hazardous a nuclear war would be for Russia as well as every body else.

Today the scientists argue the possible effects of radioactive fallout if mere testing goes on. Evidently no one has any doubts, however, that if a full scale nuclear war erupted that the contamination of air and earth would be so widespread that no nation, neither attacker nor defender nor neutral, would be safe.

There would be rich irony should war come to be outlawed not because men developed a cooperative spirit in their aspirations for peace but because the frightful horror of their new weapons of war drove them to seek a common escape from that prospect.

Uniform Traffic Laws

That old bugaboo, lack of uniformity in state traffic laws, is coming in for fresh attention.

In an NEA dispatch from Washington, Douglas Larsen highlights comment by a traffic safety engineer, Irving S. Markel, in statements to a congressional committee studying highway safety.

As a few samples of the dangerous discrepancies, Markel cites the fact that fewer than 25 states have compulsory inspection of vehicles to determine their mechanical soundness; that some states allow children 14 and 15 to drive, though normally, they lack the maturity for the task; that all kinds of variations exist on speed limits, traffic lanes and rules affecting use of the road.

Markel believes the states never will voluntarily put a uniform code into effect and that therefore federal legislation is required to enforce it.

Perhaps Congress, in this investigation, ought to come up with a report that carries the unmistakable warning a federal club will be used if the states do not swiftly adopt the code. Surely we have had enough of these death-dealing discrepancies which leave motorists at a loss to know what is right as they cross from state to state.

Separate Vacation Means Something Else to a Man

A recent issue of one of those magazines designed to make young men feel older and old men feel young carries an article on separate vacations for husbands and wives.

The male author takes the stand that men have been henpecked into family vacations and they ought to demand separate vacations. I venture to say there are as many wives as husbands who would like a separate vacation, if the wife got an equal break with the husband.

That is, if the husband would keep the children while the wife goes away for two weeks and if she would keep the children while he got away from it all.

The trouble is, when most husbands speak of separate vacations what they mean is that they will go off by themselves. Mama can take the kids and go somewhere for a couple of weeks.

WAIT, MEN
That's not much of a vacation for Mama. So no wonder most women don't fall for the idea.

It's a safe bet the separate vacation idea would be given up after one summer's try if Papa had to take the kids along with him, or stay home with them while Mama went gallivanting off on her own.

So maybe the men better not start any serious talk about separate vacations. The little woman may demand the right to be as free as her husband, spending as much money as his vacation costs and completely shrugging off all feeling of responsibility for home and family while she is away.

Any husband who is willing to make separate vacations a fair and equal arrangement probably won't meet with any resistance from his wife.

He might even be shocked by her quick answer: "Okay, it's a deal. But I'd better go first, because I think you'll need a vacation when you get through with your turn at running the house and riding herd on the kids."

BUDAPEST (P)—Thousands of Communist Hungary's children have registered for regular school classes in religion, including many whose parents did not dare let them apply before last fall's revolt.

The regime of Premier Janos Kadar, like all Communist regimes, is atheistic in principle. But in Hungary, as in Poland, the Communists and churches seem to be finding ways to get along.

In Hungary a decree was issued that the registration should be neither encouraged nor hindered. As in the past, two 50-minute classes are to be given weekly, either before or after regular school hours. Priests, pastors and rabbis do the teaching in the classrooms and are paid for it by the state.

Accompanied by a government representative, I visited three Budapest schools last week. In each I was told that registration for the classes in religion was three times what it was last July. A big majority of the children registered were Roman Catholic, as is well over half the country's population.

The education ministry said it had no over-all registration figures for this year yet, and it would not make last year's figures available.

Principal Miklos Tavaszi at the Krisztina Square General School in Budapest explained that a year ago representatives of Communist women's organizations were present and discouraged mothers from registering their children. This is not happening now, he said. He predicted that, as a result, more than 200 of his 586 pupils would register, instead of the 66 who did so last year.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (P)—Hal March, on leave from the $64,000 question TV show, is here to star in a movie. Quite a difference from his last movie date here.

That was two years ago. The personable emcee played a punch-drunk fighter in "It's Always Fair Weather." He got no billing for the role—until the TV show broke big and he was hailed as a "special added attraction."

At the same time, he was doubling in "My Sister Eileen," playing a one-day bit as a drunk. Today he's the star of "Hear Me Good" and he appears in every scene of the picture.

The role is in sharp contrast to his down-to-earth, fair-and-square approach to his job as $64,000 emcee. In "Hear Me Good," he plays the fastest-talking, sharpest-dealing con man who ever came down Broadway.

Hal's success is a study in contrasts. He was known around Hollywood as a polished performer, a sharp man with a straight line or gag, an all-around good actor.

"But I was a hit on TV because I was nervous," he laughed.

He added: "I've been in show business for almost 20 years. I've been in burlesque, night clubs, radio, television and pictures."

"So when the $64,000 show hit big, I got a great review from Jack Gould of the New York Times. He said my hands shook. I coughed. I flubbed my lines and made mistakes. This could start a whole new trend," he said.

Many Headaches Brought On by Emotional Strain

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

"I have a bad headache" is probably the most common excuse used to avoid undesired activity. It is a good one, too, since no one can prove it does not exist.

But I do not want to discuss the subject of headache as a social subject, but rather the genuine article. Surely, severely recurring headaches are extremely common and nearly all of us have suffered from one at one time or another. What is not always fully realized is that there are several kinds of headaches.

There is no doubt that many headaches are brought on or made worse by emotional strain. It is not unusual, for example, to hear such stories as these: A practicing lawyer, working almost constantly under great strain, gets a severe headache on one side of the head every two or three months. A boy in college always gets a terrible headache just before examinations. A busy mother suffers from headache if she eats oysters with her occasional restaurant meal.

Occasionally headaches are related to sinus difficulty or some other physical disorder. For all these reasons the successful treatment of those who suffer from recurring headaches is not easy. A common type of headache appears to arise from a relaxation of the blood vessels in or near the brain. In this type of headache the treatment consists in giving some substance which causes the blood vessels to contract.

Rapid Relief from this kind of headache has sometimes been obtained by injecting adrenalin into one of the veins. Also favorable reports have been made on the injection into the veins of a substance called sodium nicotinate (not related to the nicotine in tobacco).

Migraine is, of course, one of the most severe kinds of headaches. As a rule this type of headache is located on one side only. Before it starts the sufferer often has peculiar sensations. In migraine, drugs given just before an attack may stop the aching before it has gone too far.

In any case of severe or repeated headaches a complete history should be recorded. The victim of such a condition should try to remember exactly where the headache is located and how it started, and particularly what unusual events preceded it.

It is only after thorough investigation that it may be possible to do much. Even then there are many failures.

Thinking It Over—

By Robert L. Diefenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Credit is the life of business. Without credit we should not be able to enjoy the many material benefits which are available to us. Few people would own their own homes without a mortgage. Few would buy new cars if they could not delay payment. Americans purchase large portions of their possessions with little cash, and they pay later.

Although the system is fine, it encourages some people to go into debt beyond their ability to pay. Indebtedness causes worry, emotional stress and mental turmoil. It frequently creates spiritual confusion. Debt destroys the morale of many.

We must learn to weigh our values so that we live within our means. Let us build up our spiritual assets so that we may possess Godly judgment as well as moral integrity.

Mom's Double-Talk Breeds Her Child's Fear of School

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

When I was a child, a visiting relative brought along a photograph of her younger sister. When I admire it, she'd say, "Oh, yes, isn't Gwen lovely? She used to pinch me black and blue when we were children. Her self-will is poor Mama's greatest trial. But everyone adores her. You'd just love her."

Naturally I loathed the unknown Gwen just as her sister's jealous double-talk had intended me to.

Now psychiatrist Dr. Leon Eisenberg warns that just such double-talk by mothers helps to breed children's fear of school.

He recently told the American Psychiatric Association's annual meeting: "The child is given conflicting cues. He is told he must go to school and at the same time shown that he dare not go."

I quote his statement far in advance of next September's first day of school in order to give mothers plenty of time over the summer to consider it.

We express our secret resentment at having to send Johnny to school by this kind of talk: "If you're a good boy, you won't get in trouble. If other kids are mean to you, tell Mommy about it. If you can't find the washroom, try and wait till you get home. If I don't send you to school, the policeman would come here and make me. Maybe you'll get a nice teacher so it won't be so hard."

Like my relative's description of her sister, each of these remarks, pretending to be kind, actually seek to make Johnny's still unknown experience of school loom ahead of him as a terrifying ordeal by isolation, hurt and impossible demand.

If we talk like this, it means the thought of having to send Johnny to school fills us with an unaccountable sense of helplessness and depression. And we certainly do not want this point. We can ask our clergyman, the school principal, our local family guidance agency to help us with it.

In the meantime, let's not be frightened by the idea that our love for Johnny may be less than perfect. No parent's love is perfect. Nevertheless, all of us, regardless of its flaws, want to make it the best love we can.

Let's credit ourselves with this desire—and for the next few weeks hold on to some simple words I heard spoken the other night by Mrs. Erich Fromm, wife of the noted psychoanalyst. Said she: "Listen to your tongue—and see if it truly reports what your heart is saying."

Hamburger Is Favorite At Boy Scout Jamboree

By GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor FIFTY-THREE thousand Boy Scouts will pour into Valley Forge, Pa., July 18 for a National Jamboree. Among other foods, they will dispose of 91,440 cans of soup, and beef from 1,330 head of steers.

Here's a Jamboree patrol supper menu (10 campers): Smoothed hamburgers with vegetables, mashed potatoes, carrots and raisin salad, bread, butter, canned plums, cookies, milk.

Here are official instructions for making the special hamburger:

Shape the hamburger into small, flat cakes, 2 inches in diameter. Heat two frying pans and melt two tablespoons shortening each. Fry the hamburgers until brown on both sides. Pour undiluted vegetable soup and vegetable-beef soup into a pot, add one canful of water, onions and 1/2 teaspoon salt, and mix well. Place over slow fire and allow mixture to heat thoroughly to bubbling point. Add the hamburgers and stir occasionally without breaking up the meat cakes.

For the home-staying folks, here's a more elaborate version: "Eppy Beef Sandwich"

(8 servings)
One pound ground beef, 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup, 1/2 cup sour cream, 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish, 1/4 cup chopped green pepper or pimiento, 8 buns, split and toasted.

Brown beef in skillet; stir frequently to separate meat particles. Add soup, sour cream, horseradish and green pepper or pimiento. Simmer about 10 minutes. Serve on toasted buns.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Peppery beef sandwich, potato chips, corn-on-cob, butter or margarine, sliced beefsteak tomatoes, rhubarb pie, coffee, iced tea, milk.

The club then elected their representative to run for King at the Morgan County Jr. Fair. Bill Saxer is the candidate.

Seeks Sister Not Seen In 40 Years; Believed In Area

JERSEYVILLE — Alfred Hendricks of 1905 Hickory street, St. Louis, Mo., is seeking to locate his sister, Mrs. Nellie Robertson whom he has not seen for more than 40 years.

Hendricks came to Jerseyville Friday evening and conferred with city police in the belief that his sister, Mrs. Robertson, may be living in this city.

Night police officers Richard Burrows and Kenneth Weller with whom Hendricks talked were unable to immediately find anyone answering to the name of Hendricks' sister. After spending some time here Friday evening, Hendricks returned to his home in St. Louis with the assurance that local officers will continue the search in this area for Mrs. Robertson and if found will be placed in touch with him at once.

Hendricks stated that he had information to the effect that his sister's husband is deceased and that she has two daughters. Jerseyville residents who may know of the whereabouts of Mrs. Robertson are requested to contact the Jerseyville police department.

CATCH SOME BIG ONES

Two former Jacksonville men, T. S. Daniels, left, former manager of Cities Service Oil here and S. E. Brummett, former owner of Brummett's garage who now live at Winter Haven, Florida came through recently with a 'big catch.' Daniels is now owner of the Brilbey Shores Motel and Boat Basin in Winter Haven. He sent word to the Journal Courier that "we motored to Fort Myers Beach where a chartered boat took us out to do some angling on the Gulf."

"After reaching a spot some fifteen miles out on the Gulf they began trolling with spoons as the bonita were playing in very large schools. A few were caught but this method was soon abandoned. We anchored and started still fishing. I tied on to a very large something, but after a few minutes came up with a portion of its lower lip for evidence, then Brummett latched on to something that took him a good thirty minutes to bring to the surface. It turned out to be a sea bass weighing 132 lbs. worth."

"After securing fish to side of boat another mullet bait was put on and dropped to the bottom and as soon as the bait was moved off the bottom another sea bass latched on, this one only 54 lbs. Several small sharks up to 25 lbs. were caught, also some blue runners, grunts and groupers. While this is no record in this weight fish, they would make some excellent baits for someone that wanted to go out and catch some big ones."

He is Dr. W. E. Kappauf, Jr., experimental psychologist from the University of Illinois.

He and his comrades, in teams of five, will make their imaginary five-day cruises cramped together in a chamber not much bigger than a family car, that will never leave the ground. It is located in Marietta, Ga.

Their purpose will be to test human factors—the capacity of pilots and crew members to endure—and continue to function effectively—in the compressed area of a nuclear-powered aircraft of almost unlimited range.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H. At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

Sunny Afternoon Predicted For 24th All-Star Clash

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—Judging by the criticism leveled at the United States Golf Association as the result of the Mrs. Jackie Pung incident, you would suspect that its officials were running around looking to disqualify apparent winners of important tournaments.

In the cold, sober afterglow of the U.S. Women's Open at Winged Foot, you realize that the officials had no other choice under a mandate handed down by the executive committee last winter. That made the competitor solely responsible for the correctness of the score recorded for each hole.

There really is nothing new about the Pung case. Disqualification was the penalty for years. Paul Runyon was similarly disqualified in the U.S. Open of 1933, when his marker and playing partner was none other than the great Chick Evans. A professional named Wally Ulrich was the victim of poor mathematics in the Open of 1950.

When the USGA sought to modify the penalty last year, it was blasted for being too lenient because the offenders were not contenders. There were three incidents in the two Opens of 1956, and Jackie Burke, Gil Cavanaugh and Betsy Rawls each was penalized two strokes.

It was after this that the executive committee definitely decided that the book could not be rewritten on the spot every time a difficult situation bubbled up.

"While many consider the penalty too severe, there are very good reasons for it," explains Joseph C. Dey, Jr., executive director of the USGA. "It's a rule for orderliness and procedure. If there were no rules, there would be chaos."

But for this rule, players could keep changing their cards indefinitely. It standardizes scoring. Tournament committees cannot be permitted to take this into their own hands.

"Too wide discretion by the USGA would result in too wide interpretation throughout the country. The tournament chairman of the Squeedunk Country Club Invitational Four-Ball would say, 'The USGA can't make up its mind. We'll make our own rules.' An obvious purpose of the rule is to prevent cheating and split decisions in moral judgment can't be left to tournament committees."

"The rule was deemed necessary to insure the proper distribution of prizes. Medal play is the basis for qualifying for match play. Thirty-two qualifiers turn in correct scores. The championship flight is all made up, and someone comes along pointing out that he had a 3 instead of a 4. That ties him with two others who have gone home and can't be reached for a play-off. Everybody must be treated alike by uniform decisions."

As the executive committee stressed in making the competitor solely responsible for the correctness of the score recorded for each hole, it is a simple matter to discharge this responsibility, and the penalty, although extremely severe, may easily be avoided.

The golfer must concentrate on keeping score as well as his or her game.

Major League Owners Re-Elect Ford Frick

ad MAJOR LEAGUE OWNERS ST. LOUIS (AP)—Major league owners re-elected Ford Frick for a second seven-year term as baseball commissioner Monday by unanimous vote.

The 62-year-old Frick was called into the joint meeting of the American and National leagues for congratulations after the 20-minute session and said later "all I want to say is thanks."

Club owners said there was no discussion of salary terms for Frick, who now receives $65,000 a year.

At the brief meeting the club owners ignored the suggestion by Bob Feller, former Cleveland pitcher, that players be given a voice in selecting the commissioner. The suggestion, advanced by Feller at recent congressional hearings in Washington on the relationship between sports and the antitrust laws, wasn't even mentioned.

The commissioner's post became open when A. B. (Happy) Chandler yielded to pressure, after the owners had voted against renewing the contract, and resigned July 15, 1951.

Frick is baseball's commissioner. The late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis was the first, serving from 1921 following the Black Sox scandal. Chandler became his successor in 1945.

At the joint meeting here, the club owners also approved a five-year extension in the major-minor league agreement. This governs such matters as draft prices, territorial rights, and other rules and regulations.

Aaron Doing All He Can To Make Haney Look Good

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ

NEW YORK (AP)—Milwaukee's Hank Aaron, who leads the National League in batting, home runs and runs batted in, is doing all he can to make his manager, Fred Haney, look good.

Aaron was the subject of Haney's discussion one day in Spring training at Bradenton, Fla. Aaron had won the National League batting crown in 1956 with a .328 average, but Haney felt that the hard-hitting outfielder was far from his peak.

"He's a .350 hitter at least," Haney said. "He's only 23 years old, and he has a long way to go." The Braves skipper believed Aaron would improve in 1957.

And now with the 1957 season at the halfway point, Aaron certainly has more than justified his manager's optimism. At the All-Star break he sports a .347 average, has hit 27 homers and driven in 73 runs. Aaron also has collected 117 hits and 64 runs—both high in the National League.

Aaron displaced Pittsburgh's Lee Foy as the batting leader. Foy's slump to .282 at 344. St. Louis' Stan Musial, a six-time batting king, fell from second to third at .341.

In the American League batting race defending titlist Mickey Vernon of the New York Yankees holds a commanding 26-point edge over Boston's Ted Williams. Vernon is swinging at a .369 clip as compared to Williams' .343 average. Baltimore's Bob Boyd remains third at .338.

Bill Skowron of the Yanks took over the RBI lead from Roy Sievers of Washington with 60, one more than Sievers. Musial socked one homer and still leads that department with 22.

Country Club Swimmers Lose To Ivy, 159-92

The Jacksonville Country Club swimming team journeyed to Peoria Sunday and were defeated by the powerful Illinois Valley Yacht club swimming team, 159-92.

The IVY club team has been in existence for many years. This is the second year for the Jacksonville team. Much experience was gained by this meeting and better showings are expected when the IVY team comes to Jacksonville for a return engagement in August.

Some of the local swimmers receiving first places were: Candy Aichele, 9-10 girls, first in backstroke; Bill Pigott, 11-12 boys, first in breaststroke; Jeanne Hemphill, 11-12 girls, first in breaststroke; Gloria Klump, 13-14 girls, first in breaststroke. Mike Hartung, 13-14, boys, first in freestyle and first in butterfly; Paula Schultz, 13-14 girls, first in freestyle and first in butterfly; Ted Rammeikamp, 11-12 boys, tied for first in butterfly; and Chuck Cole, 15-16 boys, first in butterfly.

Many of the second places which Jacksonville received were close. With some good practice they should improve in the future. The next meet will be with Quincy Country Club at 1:30 p.m. Friday, July 26, at the Jacksonville Country Club pool.

Tigers' Jim Bunning To Face Curt Simmons In Tuesday's Classic

By JACK HAND

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Jim Bunning, a lanky Detroit right-hander with a shiny 10-2 record, will start Tuesday's All-Star game for the American League against Curt Simmons, Philadelphia's rejuvenated lefthanded ace.

Manager Casey Stengel selected Bunning over Billy Loes of Baltimore among his righthanders after learning that Cleveland's Early Wynn had pitched Sunday. This is Bunning's first All-Star game.

Stengel said he "would have possibly pitched Wynn" if he had not worked Sunday and he sounded off against the practice of using All-Star pitchers as starters in the weekend before the game.

"No All-Star pitcher should be permitted to start in the last two playing days before the game," he said. "You pick your pitchers a week ahead and they pitch them a day ahead."

The National League, still trailing 13-10 in the series, has won six of the last seven games and Stengel has lost five of six.

Walter Alston of Brooklyn was a late starter from New York and didn't arrive in time for the usual news conference at which lineups are disclosed. Dave Grote, National League Service Bureau chief, announced Simmons as the starter.

Curt has pitched in two All-Star games, starting in 1952, the year rain halted play after five innings at Philadelphia.

With St. Louis bug-eyed over baseball, due to the Cardinals' sprint, all tickets for the Busch Stadium game were gobbled up long ago. A capacity crowd of 31,000 was assured.

The weatherman predicted a sunny afternoon with temperatures in the 80s by game time, scheduled for 1:30 p.m. If thunderstorms should force a postponement, the game would be played at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The radio and television people (NBC) who pay $1 million dollars for the All-Star and World Series each year under a new contract, will beam the game from coast to coast. Sixty per cent of the radio-TV cash and the estimated receipts of $125,000 go to the player pension fund.

Simmons, the 27-year-old Phil, has an 8-4 record in his second good year of a "comeback" after shoulder trouble threatened to end his career two springs ago. Alston didn't name a second pitcher but Johnny Antonelli of New York (7-7) was a possibility.

The National has one more lefthander, Warren Spahn of Milwaukee (8-7), and righthanders Jack Sanford of St. Louis (10-2), Larry Jackson of St. Louis (10-4) and Lew Burdette of Milwaukee (6-5). Jackson and Burdette pitched Sunday. Also available is Brooklyn's bullpen ace, Clem Labine (3-5).

After Bunning, the American probably will use Loes (9-4) with lefthanders Bill Pierce of Chicago (12-6) and Bobby Shantz of New York (9-1) primed for later duty. Stengel said he might use 37-year-old Wynn (11-10) in an inning if needed. Don Mossi, Cleveland lefty, (6-2) also pitched Sunday.

Bob Grim, Yankee reliever (8-3) is a bullpen possibility. Without realizing it, Stengel threw a little more fuel on the fire resulting from the Cincinnati voting splurge when he named Bunning from the greater Cincinnati area (Carrollton, Ky.) to handle the Cincinnati-dominated National starting lineup. Five Redlegs start for Alston and there would have been more if Commissioner Ford Frick hadn't picked Stan Musial of St. Louis for first base, Hank Aaron of Milwaukee for right field and Willie Mays of New York for center. Musial won anyway under the fan vote but the others would have given way to Cincinnati's Gus Bell and Wally Post. Alston later selected Bell to his 25-man squad.

Stengel went to a righthander because Musial and catcher Ed Bailey of Cincinnati are the only lefthanded starters for the National. The righties are second baseman Johnny Temple, shortstop Roy McMillan, third baseman Don Hoak and left fielder Frank Robinson, all of Cincinnati, and Aaron and Mays.

Stengel's Yanks have only two on the starting list but eight on the squad. Indications were that Stengel would take out Cleveland's Vic Wertz and replace him at first with the Yanks' Bill Skowron after three innings. Shortstop Harvey Kuhn of Detroit probably will give way to the Yanks' Gil McDougald and third baseman George Kell will bow out to Boston's Frank Malzone. Ted Williams in left will play as

GRAIN FUTURES STAGE STRONGEST RALLY IN WEEKS

BY WILLARD ROBERTSON

CHICAGO, (U)—Grain futures staged one of the strongest advances in months Monday on the Board of Trade on general buying and covering by shorts.

July rye advanced eight cents a bushel. Wheat and soybeans were ahead more than four cents in some cases, while corn and oats were up one to two cents. New style wheat closed 3 1/4 to 4 1/4 higher, corn 1 to 2 1/4 higher, oats 1 to 1 1/4 up, rye 4 1/4 to 8 cents higher, soybeans 2 to 4 1/4 higher, and lad 28 to 60 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Wheat climbed despite continued favorable harvesting weather. Trade sources said millers bought wheat, and there also were flour sales to the family trade in advance of a 20 cents per hundred pound price boost effective after the close today.

There also was a general lack of hedging pressure. Brokers said there apparently had been considerable hedging Friday in anticipation of heavy receipts Monday.

Chicago receipts were fairly substantial at 389 cars, compared with 39 a week ago and 260 a year ago. Another 202,000 bushels came in by barge. Traders continue to receive reports of poor yields and quality in the Southwest. Also, the Baldwin Elevator Co. of Decatur, Ill., said Illinois wheat is disappointing, both as to yields and quality. The main buying factor in soybeans was an agriculture department report indicating cotton acreage as of July 1 at 14,224,000 compared with 16,833,000 last year. Traders had expected even smaller acreage, with estimates ranging down to 13 1/2 million acres.

If yields are as expected, cotton production would be about 11,300,000 bales, down about 2 million bales from last year. A decrease in cotton production would boost demand for soybean oil. Traders figured it would require about 22 million bushels of beans to make enough oil to make up this deficit.

NEW YORK, (U)—U.S. government bonds advanced Monday but corporate turned lower at the close in fairly brisk trading.

Investment quality corporates and convertibles advanced but rail, industrials and utilities declined to turn the trend lower. Treasury obligations advanced in moderately active transactions over the counter.

Convertibles were strong in sympathy with the rise of their stock counterparts.

Trading volume mounted to $5,212,000 par value on the Big Board from $4,940,000 last Friday.

NEW YORK, (U)—The stock market set a new 1957 high Monday in the heaviest trading of nearly five weeks.

Pivotal issues rose from fractions to 2 points or so. Specialties ran up much wider gains. The improved outlook for business in the second half of this year and a renewed feeling that the inflationary trend in the economy is here for a long time was behind the rise, brokers said.

Some analysts said that the technical position of the market, which has penetrated a series of upside barriers, encouraged many investors to believe that the rise will continue until it reaches the historic bull market peak of 1956.

Early in the day, chemicals, rails, some nonferrous metals, rubbers and selected issues paced the advance with the motors, oils and steels mostly lower.

News late in the day that Russia had thrown cold water on the proposals for a 10-month suspension of hydrogen bomb tests boosted the aircraft, which had been doing little. Some oils and steels improved but motors remained unchanged to lower.

The rally in aircraft brought a final rush of trading which caused the high-speed ticker tape to fall behind the pace of transactions in the final minutes.

Volume was 2,840,000 shares compared with 2,240,000 Friday and was the heaviest since June 11.

The Associated Press average of 60 stock rose 70 cents to $187.10, topping the previous '57 high of $186.40 first reached June 13. The industrial component rose $1.10 to another new historic high, adding 1.43, 000; wholesale buying prices unchanged; 93 score

The last issue of the Southwest General News, house organ for the General Telephone Co. of the Southwest, carries an illustrated article upon the company's new "first family."

Pictured are the new president of the company, Elmer H. Danner, who graduated from Illinois College in 1927 and began his apprenticeship with the local telephone company in 1928; his wife, the former Abbie Lee Young of Jacksonville, and their son, Chris. The article also praises the late J. H. Dial, former local telephone executive, for his success in channeling promising young men into the telephone industry.

Busy And Popular
Danner, native of Mt. Pleasant, Mo., attended Bradley Polytechnic Institute for two years and then remained out of school for two years to save enough money to resume his studies. He then entered Illinois College, where he was a very busy and popular man, carrying a two-major course of study, and winning letters in baseball, basketball, football and track while working for his meals at Tommy Cosgriff's restaurant.

After graduation he taught mathematics and physical education at Williamsville High school for a year. By that time the idea planted by his friend, J. H. Dial, that the telephone industry held a bright future for him, began to grow and he quit the higher-salaried school job and began as groundman of the Jacksonville system.

His years here were spent as groundman, lineman, cable splicer, helper, switchboard man, combinationman, assistant plant manager and manager.

To Fort Wayne
In 1934 he went to Fort Wayne, Ind., as an employee of the Telephone Management company. Later he went to Durham, N. C., on a temporary basis to relieve the manager who had been injured. The "temporary" job lasted five years and he became vice president and general manager of the company.

In 1940 he transferred back to Fort Wayne as vice president to Telephone Services, Inc. His work there took in a broad scope of telephone operations—plant, traffic, commercial, labor negotiations and, during war years, special government contracts.

In May, 1945, he transferred to the Texas Telephone company in Sherman as president. At the same time he was vice president of the Oklahoma Telephone company. In April, 1956, he joined General Telephone Company of the Southwest as the operating vice president and the family moved to San Angelo, Calif. He became president of the company on May 1, 1957.

Much Community Work
The Danners have contributed much to community and civic enterprises, the article continues. "In Sherman Mr. Danner at various times had been president of four organizations—the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary club, Community Concert Association and the Sherman area Bay Scott association. He served as director of the Knife and Fork club, Red Cross unit and Salvation Army. In addition, he was chairman of a Community Chest drive over the county."

Convertibles were strong in sympathy with the rise of their stock counterparts.

Trading volume mounted to $5,212,000 par value on the Big Board from $4,940,000 last Friday.

NEW YORK, (U)—U.S. government bonds advanced Monday but corporate turned lower at the close in fairly brisk trading.

Investment quality corporates and convertibles advanced but rail, industrials and utilities declined to turn the trend lower.

Treasury obligations advanced in moderately active transactions over the counter.

Convertibles were strong in sympathy with the rise of their stock counterparts.

Trading volume mounted to $5,212,000 par value on the Big Board from $4,940,000 last Friday.

NEW YORK, (U)—The stock market set a new 1957 high Monday in the heaviest trading of nearly five weeks.

Pivotal issues rose from fractions to 2 points or so. Specialties ran up much wider gains. The improved outlook for business in the second half of this year and a renewed feeling that the inflationary trend in the economy is here for a long time was behind the rise, brokers said.

Some analysts said that the technical position of the market, which has penetrated a series of upside barriers, encouraged many investors to believe that the rise will continue until it reaches the historic bull market peak of 1956.

Early in the day, chemicals, rails, some nonferrous metals, rubbers and selected issues paced the advance with the motors, oils and steels mostly lower.

News late in the day that Russia had thrown cold water on the proposals for a 10-month suspension of hydrogen bomb tests boosted the aircraft, which had been doing little. Some oils and steels improved but motors remained unchanged to lower

Truman Quickly Solves Mystery Of Cornerstone

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—The Truman Memorial Library and Museum, newly dedicated Saturday, had a cornerstone mystery on its hands Monday.

But it was nothing that former President Harry S. Truman, in whose name the $14-million-dollar structure was commemorated, could not handle.

"That paper won't go in the box," he said, referring to a report that a newspaper account of Senate funeral services for the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy, a political foe, would be sealed up in the limestone.

A list of cornerstone contents including the May 3, 1937, copy of the Milwaukee Journal was read at the Saturday ceremonies by William H. Utz of St. Joseph, Mo., a Missouri Masonic official.

"Someone just didn't know what he was doing when he put that in there," Truman said.

Utz said a parenthetical explanation, "Included by request of former President Truman," followed the Journal item on his list. "I was just as surprised as you or anyone else," Truman said when asked, "I don't know why they read that off. Only the local papers—the Kansas City Star and the Independence Examiner—will go in, and that won't mean anything for or against anyone."

The copper box inside the cornerstone was sealed only temporarily Saturday. It will not be soldered shut until later this week, giving Truman and his staff a chance to scrutinize its contents.

Utz said he was given the list by an Independence man, George Marquis. Marquis in turn, said he simply passed it on to Utz from Dr. Philip C. Brooks, director of the library.

"There is nothing I can say on it," Brooks said.

U.S. Couple Indicted As Spy Ring Members

NEW YORK (AP)—An American couple abroad were named in a federal grand jury indictment Monday as members of an international spy ring that fed U. S. defense secrets to Russia. They are living in a Left Bank Paris apartment house.

George Zlatovskii, 47, and his wife, Jane Foster Zlatovskii, 45, were linked by the government to a ring headed by Jack Soble, who currently is awaiting sentence as a confessed ringleader in the spy plot.

"This is part and parcel of the same spy case," said U. S. Atty. Paul W. Williams.

He said French authorities have been notified of the case, and efforts will be made to extradite the couple to this country.

The new indictment alleged for the first time that the late Lavrenty P. Beria had a direct hand in sending Soble to this country in 1940 to "execute assignments in the Soviet Intelligence service."

Beria was a powerful figure in the Russian secret police and was minister of internal affairs and first deputy premier of Russia until his 1953 execution.

Soble, 53, a native of Lithuania, came to this country in 1941 with his wife, Myra, and a son, now 17. They posed as refugees from the Nazis and were naturalized in 1947.

Soble and his wife pleaded guilty to spy charges last April 10. Another member of the ring, Jacob Abram, 64, followed suit. All were arrested last Jan. 25. They face maximum prison terms of 10 years each. However, sentencing has been held up while they cooperate in telling the grand jury details of the spy plot.

The five-count indictment against the Zlatovskis carries a maximum penalty of death. The Sobles and Abram faced a similar penalty but the death count was stricken when they pleaded guilty to lesser charges.

CHARGE ATTORNEY WITH DEATH OF EX-WIFE

CHICAGO—The Cook County grand jury Monday reportedly returned a true bill charging an attorney with fatally shooting his ex-wife as they sat in her automobile.

The attorney, Bailey Stanton, 64, was quoted by police as saying he and Dr. Margaret L. Stanton, 48, had made a pact to end their lives. However, police discounted his story.

Stanton also wounded himself in the shooting July 7. His condition at Illinois Masonic Hospital is described as fair.
